

Business Problem

The problem is that our biggest technology client, NewLeaf Technologies, is trying to figure out the best move for their business. They either want to create a base in Toronto or New York City, they want us to use the foursquare api to help them make a decision.